Goshen College Gets Million for Library

Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Good, who were graduated from Goshen College some 40 years ago, are giving $1,000,000 to the College for the new library.

Dr. Paul E. Mininger, president of Goshen College, said last November 19, the day of the announcement, "It is with a deep sense of thanksgiving to God and to Mr. and Mrs. Good that I make this announcement. This gift comes at a time when additional library space is of highest priority. It will enable us to provide a more adequate Christian education for the increasing number of young persons coming to us from our churches.

Orrin J. Smucker, president of the Board of Overseers of Goshen College, said, "This generous gift will enable Goshen College to provide facilities that will maximize the contribution of the faculty to the Teaching Mission of the College. It will provide outstanding help in the College's ability to continue to offer quality Christian higher education to young persons."

Dr. Paul M. Lederach, president of the Mennonite Board of Education, said, "The gift of the library is a tremendous asset, both to Goshen College and The Mennonite Church. It will stand as a witness to the donors' confidence in the youth of our church and to their awareness of the growing significance of the church-related college. We are grateful to God for this gift and for the encouragement it brings to all who are deeply involved in improving and furthering the church's teaching ministry through higher education."

Seats 600

The new library will have a seating capacity for 600, with at least 450 students at individual carrels. It will have 38,800 square feet of floor space, and shelf space for 205,000 volumes. The library will be situated at the geographic center of the campus, between the Church-Chapel and the Arts Building.

In addition to ample areas for cataloging and technical services, periodicals, and the reference and bibliographic departments, the new library will have several rooms for faculty research.

Ground will be broken next year so that the library will be ready for occupancy no later than September, 1967.

For Increasing Enrollments

Goshen College's full-time enrollment reached a record-breaking 1069 students this fall — and with it came a corresponding cramp in library facilities and men's and women's housing. The 75th Anniversary Development Program — and the library that is part of it — provides the resources for accommodating the increasing numbers of students in the years immediately ahead.

Goshen College's present library contains some 89,000 volumes. Built in 1940, it has a seating capacity for 134 in its main reading room, no longer adequate for the greatly increased campus population.

A Special Gift

The gift from Mr. and Mrs. Good makes up a substantial part of the $1,500,000 originally projected to come from special gifts toward the $3,500,000 goal of the 75th Anniversary Development Program. The gift is especially gratifying since it is the first of the major special gifts required in the five-year program, 1964-69. It is hoped that this generosity will inspire others to contribute to the $2,000,000 required to meet the program's annual giving goal for the five years.

Pres. Mininger said, "The College received fine support last year from The Mennonite Church and our more than 10,000 alumni in the first year of the development program. We will continue to depend on the Church and our alumni for their enthusiastic and generous annual support.

"While we welcome deeply the evidence of confidence and support from an alumni couple and accept it gratefully within the providence of God, the College should always receive the bulk of her support from The Mennonite Church. And even though this one gift appears large, it is still the multitude of small gifts that are most significant in sustaining the Teaching Mission of Goshen College."

Good News At Goshen

THE HAPPENINGS OF JONATHAN GOSHENANDER

This is a story about Jonathan Goshenander, a fairly typical supporter of Goshen College — a story with special meaning for you, too.

Jonathan is 36. He lives with his wife, Mary, and their three children in a modest home. He earns slightly less than $6,000 a year as a schoolteacher in the township junior high school and he drives a 1962 car.

Last year, most of Jonathan's pay was spent for food, clothing, mortgage, his car, medical care, recreation. Some of it went in taxes to his local, state, and federal governments for schools, highways, mental institutions, and other services. A portion of his funds he gave in church offerings, part of which found its way to Goshen College as part of the church's support for operations.* And, being an alumnus, Jonathan also took part in the Alumni Annual Fund.

Jonathan and Mary know exactly what their mortgage payments and grocery money are buying. They are wearing the clothing they purchased, and the entire family enjoyed the camping equipment they bought last summer. But what do the Goshenanders receive in return for the amounts they provide the College?

They may not know it, but they receive a very great deal, directly and indirectly.

The Job Picture

Jonathan is one of 1600 Goshen graduates who are full-time schoolteachers. Mary is one of 300 Goshen graduates who are registered nurses. But not all graduates serve their fellowmen in these vocations; there are 230 ministers, 220 businessmen, 110 medical doctors, 70 social workers, and many, many others — librarians, medical technicians, editors, writers, artists, publishers, chemists, dietitians, research scientists, agriculturalists, engineers, contractors, and more.

In addition, the 60 percent of Goshen's alumni who are non-graduates are also filling very significant positions in our nation and Church.

Interestingly, Goshen's rate of furnishing the nation with medical doctors is higher than the overall national average for all colleges and universities and higher than the national average for all colleges with liberal arts and no professional schools. At present at least two young alumni — who were graduated within the last ten years — are medical doctors and researchers in hospitals that have achieved national importance and that have received both public and private monies for their work on the nation's killing diseases.

The Goshenander Children

Jonathan Goshenander's eight-year-old son would like to be a chemical engineer when he grows up. His six-year-old daughter can't decide between being a nurse or a teacher. At five years of age, Jonathan's youngest boy is dead set on becoming a power shovel operator.

Whatever their aspirations, the Goshenander children will be helped along their way by the work of Goshen College.

One or more of their teachers, like their father, may be Goshen College alumni, who are in every state of the United States except Maine and in seven of the eight most densely populated of Canada's provinces. Goshen's alumni teach all grades—from kindergarten through high school—and in all situations, from the traditional graded schools to the newer team teaching and non-graded approaches to education.

After satisfactorily completing their school work, the Goshenander children will have the opportunity to advance to their fullest potential at Goshen College. The College offers, at its lowest possible cost, a variety of some 35 preprofessional and major fields of study to young persons of the Mennonite Church and to other young persons who share Goshen College's basic purpose.

On a per capita basis, Jonathan gave $3.67 to Goshen College and Goshen College Biblical Seminary for their development and operating programs. Last year the Mennonite Church gave over $147,800 to Goshen College; most of the gifts came from congregations in Goshen's five-conference area: Illinois, Indiana-Michigan, Ohio and Eastern, Allegheny, and Ontario.*

"The College offers . . . a variety of some 35 preprofessional and major fields of study . . ."

Yet Goshen College is not only interested in young persons headed toward college. The Goshen campus is the national center for studying Anabaptist history; the late Dean Harold S. Bender was instrumental in establishing an historical library with some 16,000 printed volumes, beside microfilms and manuscripts.

The College also conducts a research program. One project now under study focuses on a gene-controlled chemical error in fruit flies; the value of the research lies in an analogous situation in the human in certain conditions of mental deficiency, as in mongolian idiocy and epilepsy.

"Culture for Service"

Goshen College is not only training young persons to be useful, productive citizens, but at the same time it also contributes to the life of the Church. Direct involvement of alumni and faculty, programs for international students and minority cultural groups, and missions to other lands are but a few of the evidences of such participation.

Few colleges in this country, for example, do more to emphasize "Culture for Service" than does GC. Fifty-one per cent of the faculty have served overseas, have distributed food and clothing to war refugees, served as educators in young emerging countries, and analyzed soils and plant growth in areas of the world that have low food productivity.

Goshen graduates helped found the forerunner of the Peace Corps. In 1944, over 15 years before the late President Kennedy inaugurated the Peace Corps, GC alumni were fitting together plans of two long-range programs — known as Voluntary Service and Pax — to the world-at-large that would help meet the intellectual, physical, emotional, and spiritual needs among neglected peoples.

Goshen's alumni have helped to set up schools for nurses in India . . . institutes to increase agricultural productivity in Japan . . . and units for teaching English in Southeast Asia. Others are helping emerging nations in problems of finance, technology, education, and public administration. More than 250 international alumni can look back upon college work at Goshen.

GC alumni have penetrated all areas of life. On city councils, school boards, and in other local government positions, alumni have represented their fellow citizens at the grass roots level. In school board rooms or city hall, in county buildings or under capitol dome, former students have worked and served.

The Goshenanders and the Church

If Jonathan would be able to take time from his job to examine Goshen's alumni files, he would be impressed by the numbers of men and women who have served and continue to serve in the programs of their Church. Their thoroughness and dedication to the basic ideals and truths of the Church are nothing short of impressive.

From Goshen's faculty have come numerous contributions to the many facets of church activities. The publication, "The Mennonite Quarterly Review," with its articles on Anabaptist and Mennonite history and theology and current Mennonite issues and affairs has originated from the GC campus since its first number in 1926.

Faculty members have supplied creative manpower for other tasks. A retired faculty member has contributed extensively to the camping program of the Mennonite Church and to the camping movement in the United States. The late Walter E. Yoder was coeditor in the joint hymnal revision project for the Mennonite and General Conference Mennonite churches. He was instrumental in bringing together some 1300 hymns and arranging them in a useful order for the new hymnal. Another faculty member of GC's department of music has done extensive work in the making of the revised hymnal.

"The margin is made up . . . of fees from students and, of course, the many donations from the Church, alumni, and friends . . ."

Many of the corps of writers and editors for the Christian education materials for the Mennonite Church are GC graduates. So are many of the leaders of the church's institutions — General Conference, the colleges, seminaries, high schools, and elementary schools, the Publishing House, the Mennonite Central Committee, mission boards, and the Women's Missionary and Service Auxiliary, child and adult welfare homes, hospitals, and many more organizations and boards.

Goshen's Biblical Seminary is the largest in the Mennonite Church. This year 33 full-time students are working toward advanced degrees and preparing for a life of full-time service to the Church. A total of 57 ministers took part in the annual three-week School for Ministers last February, and at least that many are expected again this year. Twenty pastors and ministers were enrolled in an evening college-level Old Testament course during last semester. The experience of these pastors and ministers — and the fruit of long years of scholarly and unremitting research of the Bible—are shared with Jonathan Goshenander's congregational leaders through the many workshops, schools, and special courses offered by Goshen's Seminary.

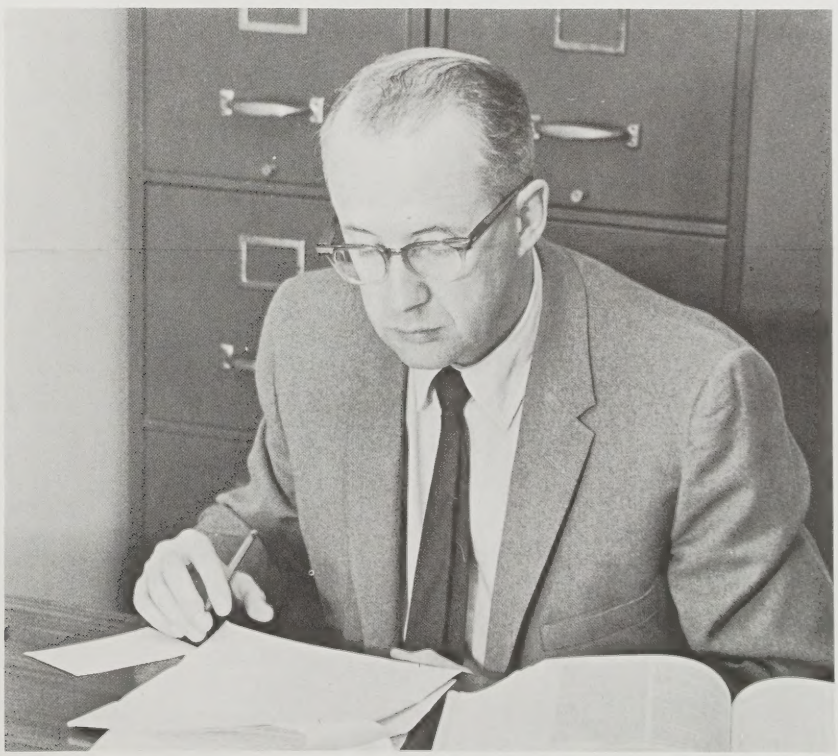
Grandma and Grandpa Goshenander

As does every good son, Jonathan Goshenander is concerned about his parents, who are in their seventies. He wonders about their health, their morale, their financial resources.

Goshen College shares his concern for the well-being of that growing segment of the population over 65 years of age. A conference on the aging led the way in calling to the attention of the Church the unique problems of the aged.

The College campus was one of the decision factors in the minds of the board for planning a retirement village, Greencroft Villa, only a few blocks east of the campus. The persons who live there will be important members of the larger Goshen College community. It could be that Jonathan's distant retirement will also center in a retirement village near his Alma Mater or one of its sister institutions.

"The publication, 'The Mennonite Quarterly Review,' . . . has originated from the GC campus since its first number in 1926 . . ."



Jonathan's Investment

As a careful shopper, Jonathan appreciates a good bargain. One of the greatest he receives, year in and year out, is the "return" on his investment in Goshen College. For the College provides exceptional training to more than 1200 students — many of them planning on advanced degrees in professional and postgraduate fields.

But there is more, much more, which is where the real bargain for Jonathan comes in.

His gift money assures the College of the margin which spells the difference between an average college and an excellent one.

The margin is made up of funds attracted by an outstanding faculty for a few select research projects . . . of grants from foundations for the book collection, or other specially designated gifts . . . of private gifts for a new library, and for scholarships and student aid . . . of fees from students and, of course, the many donations from the Church, alumni and friends.

All these extra assets have been built up in Jonathan's name by his College because of the nucleus of support which he and his fellow church members provide.

For the nucleus is vital. It is the core which nourishes all the rest. It hires a faculty. It builds residence halls and classroom buildings. It educates.

Let the nucleus be weakened, and the College, the Church, and Jonathan are poorer. Let a teacher with excellent potential be lost, and the whole Church loses his abilities, his skill, his contribution to a better world.

But if the nucleus remains solid, so does the College. With steady support from the Mennonite Church and alumni, the College continues as a flourishing institution, fulfilling its Christian purposes and touching the lives of all Mennonites and of many, many others.

It remains a place where the wisdom of the past is treasured, where ideas for future progress are born, where the leadership of tomorrow is shaped. It remains one of the single greatest resources of the people of the Mennonite Church.

By keeping Goshen College strong, Jonathan Goshenander thus does much to insure spiritual health, happiness, and opportunity for himself, his family, and his Church in the years to come.

Alumni Set 1966 Goal at $100,000

Frank Ulrich, national chairman of the 1966 Alumni Annual Fund, announced late last month that the executive committee of the Alumni Association had set the 1966 Fund goal at $100,000.

As this went to press, Mr. Ulrich said the project for the $100,000 goal was still under consideration. An announcement is to be made shortly after the beginning of the new year.

Two years ago Goshen College alumni raised $56,000 for their Alma Mater. Last year they raised $80,000. Along with the increased giving, more alumni took part. Two years ago 17 per cent of Goshen's alumni gave; last year 24 per cent gave.

Mr. Ulrich, general sales manager of Sauder Manufacturing Company, maker of church furniture, of Archbold, Ohio, feels strongly that the alumni will pass the $100,000 mark by next June 30 and that the percentage of participation will take another leap.

He says, "Becoming more evident every day in the life of the nation and the Church is the need for higher education. We don't need to argue that Goshen College provides quality education for young persons and that the faculty and staff do anything but an outstanding job to prepare young persons for a life of service to the Church and the world.

"Business and industry are looking favorably toward giving direct support to Goshen College. In 1964 Elkhart County business and professional persons and special givers exceeded their $70,000 goal by nearly $2,000, and gifts from the 1965 annual giving program in Elkhart County are still coming in.

"In the end, the alumni point the way. Their gifts and their rate of participation tell the Church, business and industry — and all the world — how they hold GC in esteem. As they think well of their Alma Mater, so also will the Church, business and industry, special givers, and foundations."

School for Ministers Set for Feb. 8-25

The 1966 School for Ministers — Feb. 8-25 — is designed to let ministers share in a sustained and depth level searching of the scriptures.

Prof. Paul M. Miller, of the department of practical theology of Goshen's Seminary, and director of the School, says, "They will have the opportunity for more intensive and prolonged confrontation of the biblical teachings, doctrinal issues, and church concerns of our time."

Tailored to meet these purposes, the School for Ministers will include 12 hours of sustained study in Old Testament studies (Jeremiah), 12 in New Testament studies (I Corinthians), 12 in doctrinal studies, and 12 in practical issues and church renewal.

During the first week the Mennonite Board of Missions will conduct a "Methods of Outreach" institute. The second week there will be a series on "Counseling During Times of Mental and Physical Illness."

The third week Prof. J. C. Wenger will deliver the Conrad Grebel lectures, "God's Word Written."

Highlight of the evening hours on Tuesdays and Thursdays will be the Horsch Room Forum, during which ministers may raise any issue.

This is the fifteenth annual School for Ministers at Goshen College Biblical Seminary. Tuition is free; room and board, as in past years, are at a nominal charge. Sessions will meet Tuesdays through Fridays of the three weeks so that ministers can return home for weekends.

Three Overseers Named To Board

Newly appointed to the Goshen College Board of Overseers are Mrs. Ernest Clemens, of Lansdale, Pa., the Rev. Richard J. Yordy, of Champaign, Ill., and the Rev. Daniel Hertzler, of Scottdale, Pa.

Mrs. Ernest Clemens

Rev. Richard J. Yordy

Rev. Daniel Hertzler

The Mennonite Board of Education at its annual meeting at Lansdale, Pa., last October expanded the Board of Overseers from 10 members to 12 and then made the appointments.

Mrs. Clemens, the former Lois Gunden, was appointed for a three-year term. She taught French and Spanish at Goshen College from 1938 to 1958. A Goshen alumna, she was graduated in 1936 with the B.A. degree, and then took graduate study at George Peabody College for Teachers, where she earned the M.A. degree in 1939, and at Indiana University, where she earned the Ph.D. degree in 1958. Since moving to Eastern Pennsylvania, she has been editor of the Voice, the monthly magazine of the Women's Missionary and Service Auxiliary of the Mennonite Church.

Mr. Yordy was appointed for a two-year term. After serving the Arthur (Ill.) Mennonite Church as bishop and pastor for several years, he moved last summer to Champaign, Ill., where he is now pastor to the Mennonite Fellowship. Graduated in 1946 with the Th.B. degree and in 1958 with the B.D. degree, he is an alumnus of both the College and the Biblical Seminary.

Mr. Hertzler, editor of Christian Living and Builder magazines and the Herald Adult Bible Studies, was graduated from Goshen College Biblical Seminary in 1955 with the B.D. degree. He is also presently a member of the Allegheny Mennonite Conference Mission Board. He was appointed to a one-year term to the Board of Overseers.

Reappointed to the Board of Overseers were Dwight Yoder, of Akron, Pa.; Howard Yoder, of Wooster, Ohio; and Erie Sauder, of Archbold, Ohio, all for three-year terms.

Other members of the Board are Orrin J. Smucker, chairman, of Plain City, Ohio; the Rev. Harold Zehr, secretary, of Normal, Ill.; the Rev. John H. Mosemann and C. L. Graber, both of Goshen; Charles Hoeflich, of Perkasie, Pa.; and Norman High, of Kitchener, Ont.

For High School Seniors It's "Campus Open House"

Campus Open House, March 18 and 19, 1966, will be a 24-hour introduction to college for high school seniors and recent graduates.

They will get acquainted with future classmates, meet college officials, teachers, and campus leaders, and visit college lectures and labs.

Highlights of the weekend will be the all-school drama production, "The Crucible," by Arthur Miller, "Nurse for a Day" for those interested in exploring the nursing profession, conferences with faculty members, meetings of vocational interest groups, and a session with Maple Leaf coaches for boys interested in athletics.

All Open House activities, including lodging and meals, will be free of charge.

A week-long College Preview, for those now high school juniors, has been set for June 18-25, 1966. For more information on either activity, letters may be sent to Office of Admissions, Goshen College, Goshen, Ind. 46526.

Academic Program Subject for Counselors and Pastors

Meetings with Goshen College counselors and pastors in the College's five-conference area will begin February 1 and end around March 15.

Ray M. Sala, director of church relations, says that resource persons this year will be Dean Carl Kreider and Prof. Karl Massanari, who has served in Dean Kreider's absence as Acting Dean. Dean Kreider and Prof. Massanari will share with the counselors and pastors the academic program of the College and the opportunities that lie before the College in this important area of its operations.

Meetings are now being planned with counselors and pastors in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio, Pennsylvania, and Ontario.

Goshen College's Maple Leafs completed its most successful soccer season in its history with a 4-1 victory over the University of Notre Dame on November 13. The Maple Leafs defeated all its other competitors and now sport an 8-0 record for 1965.

Books and Student Union Are '66 Alumni Projects

The executive committee of the Alumni Association decided last month that $50,000 for books for the new library and $50,000 toward the planning and first steps of enlarging the Student Center are the projects of the 1966 Alumni Annual Fund.

Frank Ulrich '55, national chairman, said that half of the $100,000 goal will get the library in tiptop shape and keep the collection current by adding books from all fields of knowledge.

He said, "Thanks to the generosity of the Goods, GC hopes to have the library under construction this spring. It will require new books to serve the increasing numbers of students as well as to stay in the forefront of the knowledge explosion."

Just like the library itself, the $50,000 for books is a part of GC's 3½-million-dollar 75th Anniversary Development Program presently under way. The program, announced in the fall of 1964, leads to the celebration of the 75th anniversary of the founding of the College in 1969.

The other half of the $100,000 will go toward new facilities of the Student Center. They are being planned so that a greater number of GC's students can enjoy the relaxed, yet stimulating atmosphere for that out-of-class sociability that can mean so much to young persons.

Already Pres. Mininger and GC's deans have met with Frank Noffke, a nationally known consultant on student union facilities, to study the recreation requirements of the campus and present Student Center.

Frank Ulrich said, "Alumni will appreciate the situation of the students in the present Student Center. Built 17 years ago, it is hardly adequate to serve the more than 1200 present full-time and part-time students."

The new facilities are being designed to provide more recreational opportunities on campus. They will make possible the kind of Christian social and recreational activity and structure which leads to the development of social skills and personality.

Like the $50,000 for books, the enlarging of the Student Center is also a part of GC's 75th Anniversary Development Program. The $50,000 will go toward Phase 1 of the project: consultant's fees, preliminary planning, and initial steps toward improvement of the Center.

Alumni of Goshen College, and of the nine others represented on the Council of Mennonite Colleges, may take part in the El Salvador Seminar, Caribbean Seminar, and European Educational Tour next summer.

Stimulating Alumni Intellects

GC's case for its First Alumni College in June rests essentially upon the principle that it is responsible for fostering the continuing education of alumni.

After all, alumni are educated persons. They should be concerned with political and social problems as well as with the economic problems upon which their livelihood depends.

Further, an alumnus should have an interest in learning more about his fellow man and his society. He should continue studying to improve both his factual knowledge and his ability to interpret the facts.

Starting out in a limited way, GC, on the weekend of June 3-6, 1966, will inaugurate its First Alumni College. Already Dean Carl Kreider (economics) and Prof. John S. Oyer (history and political science) have consented to take part.

Scheduled during the weekend events will be lectures and discussions for the alumnus—to center his attention on broad philosophic and social problems, and to stimulate his interest as well as to inform him.

GC is ready to help its alumni "replenish their intellectual reserves." The next step must come from the alumni.

Looking Ahead at GC

Last fall Pres. Mininger appointed ten faculty members to a Committee on the Future of the College. Once a week they discuss the GC of the future—what will it teach, who will it teach, what will be the character of the end product, that is, the alumni?

Vital to GC's future is an understanding of what should be the alumnus's place in future society. How should he deal with society's problems in 1976, 1986, 1996, 2006?

Alumni will do well to ponder the significance of this Committee. For example, how can GC prepare its future alumni in the matter of a deep and strong biblical faith—a deep trust in God and a realistic biblical understanding of the world in which they will live?

Or will GC alumni declare that spiritual life and maturity come second to technical skills, competence in language, and knowledge of human culture?

How can GC prepare its students to be the conscience of society, the salt of the earth?

Or will they pass by the hungry, the shivering and exposed, the homeless, the diseased, the mentally and emotionally ill, the ignorant, the fearful and hopeless, those terrified by war, those destitute from disaster, those living in poverty?

Finally, how can GC endow its students with moral, ethical, and Christian values and the importance of their part in making decisions that will have vast social, economic, and religious implications for their society?

Or will GC alumni be unidentified, among the fat and lazy of the land?

GOSHEN COLLEGE IS GROWING

GOSHEN COLLEGE
CULTURE
FOR SERVICE
1903

. . . GROWING IN MANY WAYS

TWO GC ALUMNI GIVE $1 MILLION FOR LIBRARY

Harold C. '22 and Wilma M. (Smucker) '21 Good are giving $1,000,000 to the College for the new library.

Goshen College is deeply thankful to God and to Mr. and Mrs. Good for the generous gift. The gift comes at a time when additional library space is of highest priority. It will enable the College to provide a more adequate Christian education for the increasing numbers of young persons coming to Goshen.

Ground will be broken this year so that the library will be ready for occupancy no later than September, 1967.

1965 FALL ENROLLMENT UP 13 PER CENT

Goshen College's full-time enrollment reached a record breaking 1069 students last fall. The new enrollment is a 13 per cent increase above last year's 952 full-time students.

Included in the 1069 are 33 full-time seminary students. In addition, 154 are studying at GC part-time, making a total of 1223 that GC is serving this year.

Forty-four per cent of the students—334 freshmen plus 140 transfer students—came to campus for the first time this year. The rest of the campus population is continuing students (577) plus students who were readmitted after a semester's absence or more.

GC LAUNCHES PROGRAM FOR 'DISADVANTAGED'

Last fall GC took a firm step toward meeting the tremendous educational needs among the Negroes, Puerto Ricans, Mexicans, and other national groups in the United States who are often at a cultural disadvantage.

Distributed among the 13 students are full-tuition scholarships, loans, and other forms of substantial financial aid.

The program for the disadvantaged American student is in addition to GC's program for students from international cultures. Both programs make GC's facilities and financial resources available to students who very likely would not obtain Christian higher education without help and encouragement.

MAPLE LEAF SOCCER TEAM HAS 8-0 SEASON

Goshen College's Maple Leafs sport an 8-0 record for the 1965 season. The soccer team defeated all its competitors, including the University of Notre Dame (Goshen 4, Notre Dame 1). An alumnus treated the 28 team members and coaches to a victory banquet at the end of the season.

GC RATED HIGHLY AS TEACHER OF M.D.'S

Goshen's rate of furnishing the nation with medical doctors is higher than the overall national average for all colleges and universities and higher than the national average for all colleges with liberal arts and no professional schools.

A study by the U. S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, and published as Public Health Monograph 66, showed that for 358 liberal arts, co-educational, and men's colleges with 25 or more graduates receiving M.D. degrees, the average per cent of male graduates receiving M.D. degrees from 1950 to 1959 was 4.9 per cent.

Goshen's per cent was 6.2; this was higher than the overall national average and also higher than the national average of 5.9 for all colleges with liberal arts programs and no professional schools.

The North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools voted last summer to continue the accreditation of Goshen College as a bachelor's degree-granting institution.

NCA accreditation means that GC is academically qualified as a standard four-year college and that it continues to measure up to accepted standards in every area. Goshen first received NCA accreditation in 1941.

THREE NEW TEACHING MAJORS APPROVED

Indiana's bureau of teacher certification approved last year Goshen's 40-hour course requirements for teaching majors in French, German, and Spanish.

Before, GC offered only teaching minors in these foreign languages.

With the addition, Goshen now offers prospective secondary teachers majors in 14 subject areas.

ELKHART COUNTY GIVES OVER $70,000 TO GC

In 1964-65 Elkhart County business and professional persons and special givers exceeded the $70,000 goal for capital development at GC by nearly $2,000.

Gifts from the 1965-66 annual giving program in Elkhart County will continue to come until June, 1966.

Vital to both programs was the help given by Charles W. Ainlay, Goshen attorney at law and chairman of GC's President's Advisory Board, and Basil Turner, president of the CTS Corporation, of Elkhart.

GC STUDENTS RESPOND TO LOCAL NEEDS

Following the oldest tradition at GC, Goshen's young men and women continue to learn how to serve Christ by helping to serve their fellowmen while yet in College. This year they have found an impressive variety of ways to do this.

They tutor children at Bashor Children's Home, direct activities at the Boys' Club, rub ideas together with MYF groups, visit old people's homes, encourage children at play at the Rehabilitation Center, articulate their faith on gospel teams, paint a weathered church on a VS team, teach wiggling girls in a community Sunday school, work with "under achievers" in a tutoring service, and coach a basketball team of community fellows.

Students believe service is not valid unless given in Christ-like love. As they meet the physical, emotional, and spiritual needs among neglected people, they establish an island of Christian love to which others may come.

INVEST IN GC IN '66

The 1966 Alumni Annual Fund, with a $100,000 goal, will provide books for the new library and the resources required for Phase 1 of enlarging the Student Center.

Thanks to the generosity of Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Good, '22 and '21, GC hopes to be able to break ground for the new million-dollar library this spring and have it ready by fall, 1967.

Alumni will readily realize that the collection of books, housed in the library building, completes the requirements for making it an effective workshop for students. Further, GC's collection must be in a continual process of growth—to keep up with the knowledge explosion and to serve the increasing numbers of students.

Every academic division, department, and area of GC depends heavily on the collection of books for the education of its young persons. When the five-year 3½-million-dollar 75th Anniversary Development Program was announced, $50,000 was listed among the requirements for funds for additions to the book collection.

Special book plates will commemorate those taking part in the 1966 Alumni Annual Fund and will serve to remind students of the tradition of giving by GC's alumni.

With more and more students, the requirements for recreational facilities change. No longer is a small snack shop and lounge, and a few table tennis games and indoor shuffleboard courts adequate for between-class and late afternoon and evening recreation.

Like the funds for books, the improvement of the Student Center was also among the requirements of the 75th Anniversary Development Program. And GC's president and deans are now working diligently with Frank Noffke, a nationally known consultant in the area of student union facilities. Known as Phase 1, the first steps for enlarging the Center will include a study of the recreational facilities on campus and of student requirements, and then plans and beginning of the required improvement.

Alumni will remember from their campus days that the Student Center is a place to meet and relax, a chance to become a part of ongoing campus life. It provides a number of indoor recreation facilities, right on campus.

A GC alumnus is, after all, expected to know more than is provided him in the classrooms and laboratories. The friendships made and skills acquired in recreational activity are experiences both cultural and educational, and thus worthwhile. GC considers recreational and social facilities essential to augment the student's educational experience.

Alumni will want to work with their Alma Mater to help young men and women obtain the fullest Christian meaning for their lives. Goshen College wants this for them, and the 1966 Alumni Projects will contribute vitally to this end.

Will you, alumnus, give generously to help your Alma Mater get it for them?

A WORD FROM PREXY

The executive committee of the Alumni Association of your Alma Mater met recently with representatives of the College to select the projects which alumni could generously support in 1966. In discussing the plans for the necessary expansion of the campus, it was clear that with the addition of the new library, the next two requirements are books and enlarging the Student Center.

Together the books and the first steps toward enlarging the Student Center will cost $100,000. And this is the figure the leaders of the Alumni Association have selected as a goal for the 1966 Alumni Annual Fund. It is $20,000 higher than the $80,000 received last year, yet it is a reasonable projection based upon alumni giving the past few years. For example, alumni gifts to GC increased from $56,000 in '64 to $80,000 in '65, surpassing the '65 goal of $75,000 by $5,000.

All alumni will recognize the importance of adequate recreational facilities on campus as well as an inviting place to relax and retreat from the books. And with the predicted increasing enrollments at the College, there will be greater and greater numbers of students who will benefit from the enlarged Student Center that the alumni will be providing.

Alumni will recognize, too, the requirements of GC's library. Goshen's present collection of 90,000 volumes must be increased continuously to maintain and improve its position as a college storehouse of knowledge.

Just as living costs increase each year, so the cost of private higher education inches up. It is imperative that each alumnus recognize the role he has in supporting his Alma Mater with his gift.

It is my hope each of you will take part in this opportunity to invest generously in the cause of Christian higher education at GC. —Ronald B. Schertz '58, President

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

1. What is the Alumni Annual Fund?
   It is a fund of alumni gifts gathered annually to support projects for Goshen College that are of particular interest to former students. Annual gifts are essential to the development and growth of GC. They contribute, in effect, a "living endowment," which represent year after year a contribution of major substance. The 1966 goal of $100,000 provides income equivalent to that from a $2,500,000 endowment fund.
2. Why do alumni want to support Goshen College?
   Because alumni believe that Goshen College has been beneficial in their lives, and as a top rated, accredited institution, Goshen is worthy of their support. They also believe that Goshen College is destined for an even more significant role in providing higher education for evangelical Christians.

   Alumni have been the recipients of Goshen's fine resources—resources inherited from men and women who had a vision for the founding and growth of Goshen College. Alumni have the privilege of passing on the benefits of that heritage to young persons of today and tomorrow.
3. What is the project for 1966?
   The Alumni Annual Fund for 1966, with a goal of $100,000, will go toward two $50,000 projects—books for the new library and for the planning and first steps of enlarging the Student Center.
4. Why isn't tuition increased to cover the entire cost of education?
   Present tuition fees pay about 80 per cent of student educational costs. Student tuition at Goshen College has always been supplemented with contributed funds, even when you were in college. Incidentally, many private colleges require 40 to 50 per cent contributed support. GC depends on the 20 per cent contributed support, and the Alumni Fund has been a major part of this support.
5. I have too many requests for my support.
   Many requests have universal appeal and receive response from a broad base. You and your fellow alumni are the base of response for your Alma Mater.
6. I can't give enough to be worthwhile.
   Not everyone can give large gifts, but each gift is important, no matter what the amount.

   Our goal for alumni annual giving is 1 per cent of gross income as a minimum, or tithing the tithe for Christian higher education. Some will do more, but this level of giving is within each one's reach. We ask you to work out your own equation between cash and conscience. Give something.
7. Will Goshen College ever quit asking alumni for support?
   When Goshen quits asking for alumni support, it will be a dead institution. Alumni can always be proud of their Alma Mater and proud to be invited to help in its work and program of Christian higher education. Alumni support means Goshen College can continue to serve students from a broad intellectual and financial base.

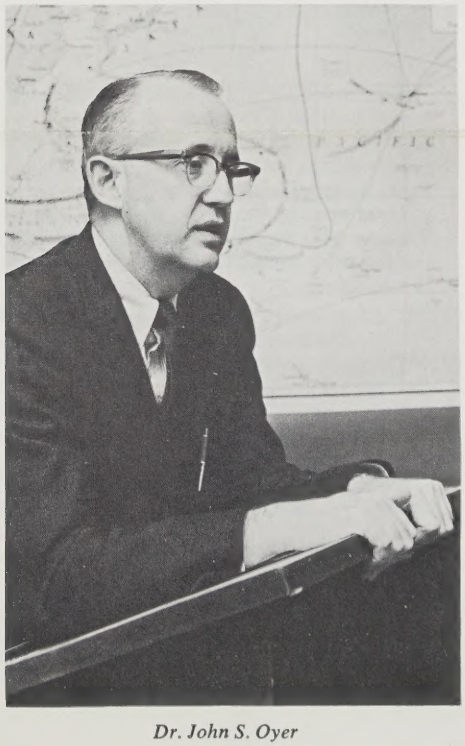
Christian Attitudes Toward Change By John S. Oyer, Professor of History



Dr. John S. Oyer

The fact of change is so obvious in our times that it does not need much elaboration. What is bewildering is not change so much as the pace of change. It simply will not slow down. Nor will it even maintain a steady pace. It insists always on accelerating. I would like to comment on a few kinds of change.

A couple of first class political revolutions in the western world late in the 18th century triggered more than a dozen revolutions in the next century in Europe alone, plus a rash of them in South America. But these in turn set off more than a score of revolutions in our own century, and we are not done with them yet. The problem to the intelligent observer of the 18th century was how to justify revolution. His 20th century counterpart is hard pressed to justify the status quo.

In economics we have moved from the 18th century's tinkering with steam engines and weaving devices to an economy so dominated by machines and advanced technology that it is estimated that 50 per cent of this year's kindergarten pupils will be working at jobs that have not been created yet.

It's a pity that we cannot fashion an automaton, some kind of synthetic man who can be made to fight our wars. Here would be a "politically hygienic form of cannon fodder." Produced by the government, "he could be suited up and sent off to war without creating harsh political repercussions from the American home . . . but a man who calls the Pentagon "Dad" and the Treasury "Mom" is apt to be easily seduced by enemy propaganda once he discovers the only mail he ever gets from home is a Form 1040 once a year." [1]

Changes in Social Relations

In social relations there is a long string of revolutionary changes: The feminist movement of the 19th and early 20th centuries. The rural to urban movement (Carl Bridenbaugh, a past president of the American Historical Association, recently complained of the difficulty he had in teaching American history to the present generation of students because they had no feeling for farm life. They did not know how to milk a cow.) The teenage revolt. The coming of age of the non-white peoples of the world with an explosive force that leaves us all a bit stunned. And the latest in social revolutions, according to Russel Baker, is the revolt of the grownups.

"More than half the population is now under the age of 26. Another eighteen million persons, or about 10 per cent of the population, are over 65. As a result, we now have an entirely new minority group on our hands — the vast discontented millions between the ages of 26 and 65 who are known as 'the grownups.' . . . Most grownups so far have meekly sought to blend into the majority culture by intendent, and Ralph J. Gunden, business manager.

For 132 Residents

To accommodate 132 residents, the new four-story hall will be contemporary in architecture and will harmonize well in material and scale with C. Z. Yoder and Clayton Kratz residence halls in the residential complex. The hall will be constructed by local builders. It has not yet been named.

The new hall is the first of the three major new buildings in Goshen College's 75th Anniversary Development Program. Even though the shortage of on-campus accommodations is greatest for women, the College believes it is better — for three reasons — to move ahead now with another unit in the men's complex and make some temporary adjustments.

1. With the 13 per cent increase in student enrollment last fall and with no indication that the actual number of full-time residential students will be significantly less in the fall of 1966, it is clear that additional housing facilities must be ready at the earliest possible date. A duplicate of Kratz Hall can be built much faster than the proposed women's residence hall because plans are ready, while final plans and specifications for the new women's residence hall require more time for development, ruling out any possibility that it could be ready this fall. Further, Goshen College has had previous experience in constructing this type of building, and the College has engaged the same construction superintendent for it as for Kratz.

2. Building costs have risen significantly in recent months and continue to rise owing to general prosperity, the Viet Nam war, and other nationwide economic factors. This makes it imperative for the College to begin some construction immediately. The new women's residence hall and the new library both require further planning time, but the College is ready to start a new men's unit now.

3. The major subcontractors who worked on Kratz Hall are available now. By engaging them, it is likely that the College will be well along with this unit by the time library plans are fully ready.

Future Building Plans

The new residence hall is to be ready this fall. Goshen College hopes to have the few final details on construction of the library worked out in order to have the groundbreaking on Saturday, June 4. Thus, the library will also be under construction this summer in order to be ready for occupancy by the fall of 1967.

After the new library, the new six-story women's residence hall is to be built on the north campus. Estimated to cost about $800,000, this new hall will be completed by the fall of 1968, one year ahead of schedule for all residential facilities in the 75th Anniversary Program, which in 1969 marks 75 years of service from the time of the founding of the College.

To alleviate the shortage of on-campus accommodations for women, the plan for the next two years is to make Kratz and its counterpart, the new residence hall now under construction, available to them.

The men will temporarily occupy High Park, which houses 102, and continue to occupy Yoder Hall. When the new women's residence hall is completed, the men will move back to the east campus, and the women will move into the new hall and repossess High Park.

pretending to enjoy British electric-guitar noise," and so forth.

"Now, however, radicals in the grown-up-rights movement denounce those who try to get along as 'Uncle Hughs.' The term derives from Hugh Hefner . . . who teaches that the ideal attitude for living is 19 years old. Women who try to cross over are stigmatized as 'Aunt Helens,' after Helen Gurly Brown, who teaches the Hefner doctrine for women in Cosmopolitan.

"The leading firebrand of the movement is Kenneth Sickmore, now 47, bald, too stout to wear a Beatles suit and too ulcerous to sit through one more surf movie. 'I was an Uncle Hugh,' Sickmore confided recently, 'until my hair started to fall out, and then I saw that I was being robbed of my dignity, and being made to play the buffoon simply because the accident of being born before 1940 had made me a second-class citizen.' " [2]

Despite talk among both Catholics and Protestants of renewal, the mid-20th century is probably more properly labeled the post-Christian era. In the Mennonite Church urbanization, TV, and having burned our fingers for disciplining for the wrong things have altered us almost beyond recognition.

What should the Christian say to this? What are Christian attitudes toward change?

God Is Shaking Us

God is shaking us. This is the very least that one can say. This shaking ought to be viewed, at least in part, as judgment. How do we respond to the shaking of God?

It seems to me there are two attitudes that Christians ought to develop. One is that we respond by repenting. Turn again — return, to use the Biblical phraseology. Here I speak primarily to Christians:

Repentance for our failure to give honest, equal place to those of God's children who have black or yellow skins;

Repentance for our insistence on appropriating for our own use all economic increase that God has given us;

Repentance for our sacrifices to the god of the corporate people, to nationalism;

Repentance for our failure to preserve the entrusted heritage of brotherhood, a warm, live, personal relation of care and concern for the brother;

Repentance for our turning an insistence on moral living into a deadening legalism.

These are our sins for which God is judging us. They are also the sins, at least some of them, of Israel. In this connection a brief passage in Hosea is instructive.

"The iniquity of E'phraim is bound up, his sin is kept in store.
The pangs of childbirth come for him,
but he is an unwise son;
for now does he not present himself at the mouth of the womb.

"Shall I ransom them from the power of Sheol?
Shall I redeem them from Death?
O Death, where are your plagues?
O Sheol, where is your destruction?
Compassion is hid from my eyes." [3]

Two Students Win Scholarships

Two students planning to enter overseas missionary service have been awarded scholarships at Goshen College.

They are C. Richard Friesen, a senior from Shantipur, India, and Robert D. Lehman, a junior from Orrville, Ohio.

Friesen received the D. A. Yoder Scholarship. He says, "I plan to enter missionary service . . . I plan to enter Goshen's Seminary this fall . . . If God seems to be calling me to any particular area, I will take a missions course on that area, as for example, Latin American missions, Eastern missions, or African missions."

Lehman received the Umble Scholarship. Last August he completed 26 months of community development service in Honduras, and is now studying to be an elementary teacher before returning to Latin America. He says, "I'm a firm believer that the positive face-to-face encounter with people is the most efficient way to bring about effective, constructive change."

The two scholarships are among some 110 available at Goshen College each year. In total, all the scholarships are worth more than $35,000.

Repentance vs. Reality

Israel would not repent, but he did not wish to face reality either — the reality of a powerful Assyria to the north breathing down upon him. He preferred the refuge of the womb. But he could not remain there forever. Since he would not repent, he would be destroyed. A few years after Hosea wrote, the Assyrians handled the job very competently.

For those who exult in all change — who think that change is a way of life to be enjoyed for its own sake, who cannot tolerate things as they are — for these the word of the Lord is repent.

But there is also a proper rejoicing in the fact that God is shaking us. This applies both to our church and also to many other churches as well:

Rejoicing because we lose our provincialism. This is not a matter of sophistication; it is rather that we take the world as our home instead of restricting ourselves to Elkhart County, or Fulton, or Woodford, or Lancaster, or Wayne counties.

Rejoicing because we shake off some of our legalism.

Rejoicing because we have more young people who are vitally concerned about the church than we did in the 1920's or in the 1890's.

Rejoicing because we face unprecedented opportunities to find fresh expressions of our faith in a world which needs Christ desperately.

God's People Rejoice

There were those of God's people who also rejoiced in the changes which He made when He shook His people and when He shook the nations. One of the more striking statements of this rejoicing is the Magnificat (Luke 1:46-53).

"And Mary said, 'My soul doth magnify the Lord, and my spirit hath rejoiced in God my Saviour. For he hath regarded the low estate of his handmaiden: for, behold, from henceforth all generations shall call me blessed. For he that is mighty hath done to me great things; and holy is his name. And his mercy is on them that fear him from generation to generation. He hath shewed strength with his arm; he hath scattered the proud in the imagination of their hearts. He hath put down the mighty from their seats, and exalted them of low degree. He hath filled the hungry with good things; and the rich he hath sent empty away.' "

Despite her recognition of this being a time to rejoice, one would have to say that Mary did not understand the revolution of which she was a significant participant. A baby born in a barn — one who was in fact king of the universe; not a rival to petty Herod, but a rival rather to Augustus Caesar and the Han emperor of China rolled into one! That would stagger the imagination of any wild-eyed revolutionary!

For those who equate any change with sin itself, the word of the Lord is rejoice. Hurrah for God! Praise the Lord! This is an exciting time to be alive, to see what God is doing among the nations and among his people.

Prayer

Forgive us, our Father, for living from fad to fad, as if life itself had no stability. Forgive us for condemning all change, because we thereby condemn Thy work. Give us a true spirit of charity toward those for whom change is a way of life and toward those who can see it only as sin. Amen.

Two Choruses On Tour

The A Cappella Choir (above) and the chorus of the Associated Mennonite Biblical Seminaries (Goshen and Elkhart) will visit churches in the Midwest and the East this spring. The tour of the A Cappella Choir goes as far north and west as Minnesota; the tour of the Seminaries Chorus, to eastern Pennsylvania.

Dean of Students Accepts Position Early

Dr. Russel A. Liechty, (above) who was associate dean of students at Goshen College and appointed to be dean of students July 1, accepted the new responsibility February 1.

The change was necessary at this time because Dr. Atlee Beechy, formerly dean of students, left January 31 for a seven-month assignment as director of MCC's new inter-Protestant relief and service effort in Viet Nam.

To free Dr. Liechty for the new position, other persons accepted additional responsibilities for the second semester.

John M. Zook, admissions counselor, became acting dean of men for second semester, a full-time position. Sharing his former responsibilities are Miss Helen Slaubaugh, head resident of High Park Residence for Women, who now gives half-time to counselling in the Admissions Office; William F. Miller, registrar, who accepted additional responsibility for counselling transfer students, and Leland K. Weldy, admissions counsellor, who accepted additional responsibility for counselling freshman students.

Mrs. Mary Imhoff, head resident of Coffman Hall Residence for Women, accepted additional responsibilities from Miss Slaubaugh in the sponsorship of the Women's House Government Association.

The new assignments are effective for second semester. By late spring staff persons will be named by the new dean of students for assignments for next year.

Offers 46 Courses, 13 for Freshmen

Thirteen of the 46 courses at Goshen College this summer will be for freshmen, who want to begin their college studies early or want to accelerate in college.

Choices of other courses give present college students added flexibility in their studies. The College follows the intensive plan during the summer; that is, one course is studied during each three-week period — June 7-24, June 27-July 15, July 18-August 5, August 8-26. Thus students can also accommodate plans for trips and employment during the terms they are not studying.

In addition, the College will also give credit to students who take part in the Central American Travel Seminar and Caribbean Travel Seminar.

For more information and a copy of the Summer School Bulletin (to be published March 21) write to Director of Admissions, Goshen College, Goshen, Indiana 46526.

Forty-two Ministers Attend 15th Annual School

Forty-two ministers from Vermont, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Michigan, Kentucky, Ontario, and Alberta took part in the 15th annual school for ministers at Goshen College Biblical Seminary, Feb. 8-25.

Directing the ministers in the sessions were faculty members of the College and Seminary, personnel from the Mennonite Board of Missions and Oaklawn Psychiatric Center, Dr. Arne Larson, of the American Medical Association, and Prof. J. C. Wenger, who gave his Conrad Grebel lectures, "God's Word Written."

Florida Field Trip Set for Spring

Profs. Merle Jacobs, Jonathan Roth, and C. Frank Bishop (above) and 20 students will spend spring vacation, March 25 - April 4, in Florida.

Prof. Jacobs and ten students will study land animals and birds in the Everglades. The others will study salt water plants and animals at Pigeon Key, operated by the University of Miami off the mainland of Florida.

The students taking part in the special educational experience will receive credit in the advanced biology course.

College Preview Set for June 18-25

Next year's high school seniors will be hosted on Goshen College's campus, June 18-25, for a week-long College Preview.

College Preview is a chance for each student to start his educational planning, explore campus life, take part in workshops, and get answers to his questions about college at Goshen.

More information is available from Leland K. Weldy, Admissions Counselor, Goshen College, Goshen, Indiana 46526.

Announces Annuity Plan

Goshen College gift annuities now yield up to 8 per cent annual interest, depending on the age of the person.

A recently published gift annuities folder points out that a person may receive an income for life, avoid investment worries, realize tax savings, and at the same time share in the Lord's work at Goshen College.

Persons who wish further information or a sample plan worked out for them should write to Paul E. Mininger, President, Goshen College, Goshen, Indiana 46526.

Prof. John S. Umble, Former Editor, Dies at Age 85

The passing of John S. Umble, at the age of 85, "leaves a vacancy that will be difficult to fill," said an editorial in the Goshen News.

"He was a gentleman and a scholar. No one connected with Goshen College ever commanded more respect.

"He was shy and retiring but above all he was amiable. There were no harsh words in his vocabulary.

"Goshen, Goshen College, and The Goshen News, in addition to his family, lost a loved one."

Urbane, witty, and friendly, John Umble taught and worked for Goshen College and his God for 26 years, 1925-51. His students said:

"As I finished my sophomore year at Goshen I decided not to return. During the summer he came to my home in Ohio. That fall I returned to Goshen. He is responsible for my finishing college."

"He always knew first names."

"My father died when I was a child. When I was in high school, John Umble was my father at a Hi-Y meeting."

"In the basement of his home we played ping pong and roasted marshmallows in the fireplace."

"I had a scholarship and wanted to go to Goshen College, but I had no car to drive the ten miles from Bristol to Goshen. I didn't register. A week after the semester had started he found me on a farm digging potatoes. He had bought a car for me and had arranged for me to work at the A & P store to pay for the gas. I paid him back at the rate of one penny a mile."

"An enthusiastic literature teacher."

"Always there to help me improve my writing. I learned much from him."

"He trained us into strong debaters; arranged to have us meet the best of competition."

Students wrote in the 1947 Maple Leaf: "We dedicate this issue . . . to John Umble, a friend and helper of youth."

The record of his leadership:

As a student at Elkhart Institute, he helped establish a school that grew into Goshen College.

Professor of English and speech.

Promoter of forensics and drama.

For six years he served as president of the Alumni Association and he edited the Association's Golden Anniversary Directory.

He was editor of the Alumni Newsletter for 22 years, 1931-53.

He was one of the principal organizers of the Mennonite Historical Society and he served as associate editor of its journal from the beginning until failing health forced his retirement.

Author of many books and articles, including the 284-page history, Goshen College, 1894-1954, A Venture in Christian Higher Education.

John Umble taught in high schools in Indiana and Ohio for seven years at the beginning of his career. At the end of his career, after retirement from GC's faculty, he taught Grades 9 and 10 at Clinton Christian Day School, 1957-59. An alumnus of that school who had talked to him in 1959 said that Mr. Umble told him, "These two years were a good ending to my teaching career."

Goshen College dedicated three plays in the "Theatre of the Absurd" on March 18 and 19 to the memory of Mr. Umble: "In teaching composition, literature and speech and in directing debate, oratory, and drama, he found meaning in tradition and he explored new forms at the frontier. His was a life of high purpose."

Dr. Cripe '49 Speaks At Dinner for Grads

Dr. Nicholas M. Cripe '49, professor and head of the department of speech at Butler University, spoke at a dinner at the Winona Lake Hotel for GC's Class of '66.

Dr. Cripe spoke on "Dare to Be a Daniel." At Goshen College, he was the first student to represent GC in the Interstate Oratorical Contest, and he won it. He was one of very few persons ever to receive a master's degree at Northwestern University at the end of three consecutive quarters. He has been the recipient of the outstanding teacher award at Butler and he is a past president of the American Forensic Association.

Alumni Gifts at $73,000 But Only 23 Per Cent Have Given

Frank Ulrich '55, national chairman of the 1966 Alumni Annual Fund, said that $73,027 has been turned in from about 23 per cent of all alumni.

This giving indicates that a 50 per cent return from alumni should top the goal of $100,000. And a 100 per cent completion of the 1966 annual fund by June 30 would top the goal by a nice margin.

Mr. Ulrich said, "Let's top the goal by June 4, Alumni Day on campus, when Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Good will be at GC for the official ground breaking for the new library."

Half of the money in the Alumni Annual Fund that is not designated for a special purpose will be for books for the new library. Books are being purchased now from the gifts that alumni have made, but the major purchases wil be made after the more adequate space in the new library becomes available.

The other half of the undesignated money will be for the enlarged student center. Plans are under way for the lounge area in the Union to be remodeled this summer to make for a combination lounge and food service area, for the bookstore to expand into the area now occupied by the snack shop and post office, and for the post office to be relocated in the west lobby of the Union.

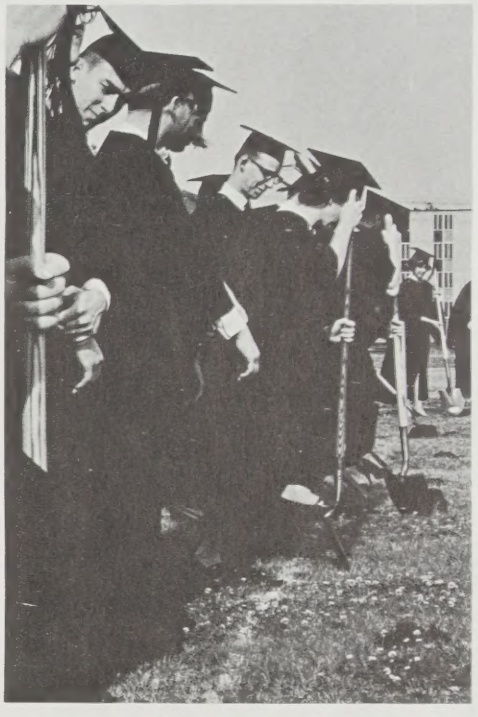
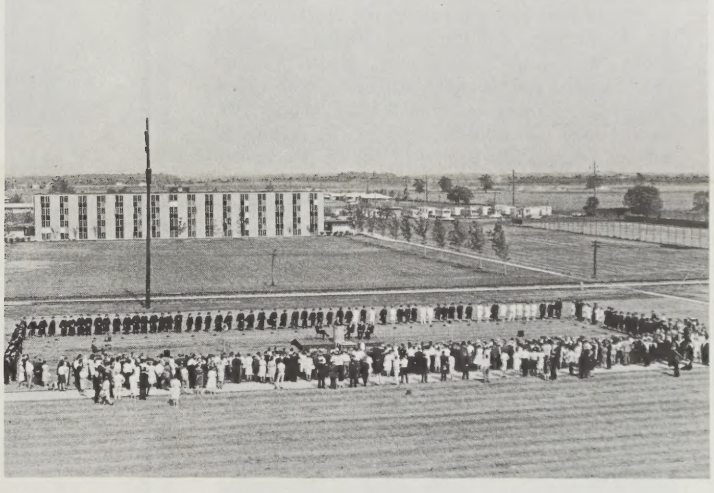
Ground Broken for $1,000,000 Library

TURNING THE FIRST SHOVELS—Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Good, of East Lansing, Mich., donors of the library, and Pres. Mininger (left) turned the first shovels for the $1,000,000 library, on the occasion of ground breaking on June 4. Other off-campus guests taking part were Dr. Paul M. Lederach, president of the Mennonite Board of Education; Orrin Smucker, president of the Board of Overseers; Charles W. Ainlay, chairman of the President's Advisory Board; Frank Ulrich, vice-president of the Alumni Association; Ralph B. Schenk, mayor of Goshen; and Norman Hildes-Heim, architect.



CLASS OF '66 DIGS IN — One shovel for every four seniors, and the ceremonial ground breaking was completed.



SENIORS MARK PERIMETER—Some 120 seniors in their caps and gowns (those in white are the graduating nurses who had just come from their class program) marked the perimeter of the 150- by 60-foot building. Dean Carl Kreider, at the podium, gave the main address. More than 700 persons, including families of the seniors, alumni, churchmen, men from local business and industry, and other friends were on hand.

ELEVATION OF NEW LIBRARY—As finally conceived by the architect, the building will contain slightly more than 35,000 square feet on four floors (one floor completely underground). There will be shelf space for 160,000 volumes, accommodations for 432 readers, an art gallery, classroom, and faculty offices when completed and ready for occupancy by the fall of 1967.

The building, however, has been designed to accommodate 250,000 volumes and 600 readers. As book holdings and the student body grow, the space used for the art gallery, classroom, and faculty offices will be gradually employed for library services. Modular construction permits this planning and utilization of space to make the building fully useful now as well as many years from now.

An architectural firm is now planning for the library plaza, to be developed to the west of the main entrance (shown here).

Traditions Many During Commencement Weekend

CHOIR PROGRAM — Ninety voices from the Chamber, A Cappella, and Collegiate choirs and a small instrumental ensemble presented "The Peaceable Kingdom," by Randall Thompson, and "A German Requiem," by Heinrich Schuetz. Dwight Weldy, of the music faculty, directed. More than 1600 persons attended the final choir program of the year.

PROCESSION — From the Church-Chapel to the Union Auditorium, faculty and graduates — more than 340 altogether — take part in the traditional procession just before the commencement service.

BACCALAUREATE — Dr. Paul M. Lederach, president of the Mennonite Board of Education, (shown with Pres. Mininger, left) was the baccalaureate speaker on June 5. In his sermon, "The Witness of the Neighbor," he told the graduates, "Christ demanded action from believers, and He constantly presented issues which demanded decision. Today we are confronted with a world in desperate need of peace, reconciliation, and of light that alone comes through Jesus Christ. The Good Samaritan brings into focus 'being a neighbor,' and in so doing, being a witness to what God began in Christ."

COMMENCEMENT — Dr. Elmer G. Homrighausen, dean of Princeton Theological Seminary, told the 238 graduates that "the living of these days for young people is anxious.

"Think of anxiety as being normal. This is the way God has made us; it's the vortex out of which all creativity comes.

"Think of all the things that are happening in the world and among the nations today — the war in Viet Nam, poverty in America, and the unleashing of nature's forces by science — not as judgments of an evil force, but as disciplines of a good God desiring to perfect and mature us. Finally, think of life as being lived in an exciting time within the context of God's purpose now being fulfilled for all mankind."

G.F. Hershberger Retires After 41 Years of Service

Prof. G. F. Hershberger, of the department of history and sociology, retired from the faculty this spring after 41 years of devoted service to the College and the Mennonite Church.

A native of Iowa, Prof. Hershberger arrived in Goshen in 1925 to teach in the areas of history and sociology. But in the intervening years he has also been coach of debate, dean of men, and secretary of the College, beside professor of history.

In addition, he has written and lectured widely on nonresistance, peace and war, union-employee-employer relations, population shifts from rural to urban communities, and the Anabaptist-Mennonite movement of the sixteenth century.

Prof. Hershberger also helped to found Mennonite Mutual Aid, which has its home offices in Goshen. He has served faithfully on its board and committees for many years, and has provided much direction and vision in its programs.

A co-founder and associate editor of the Mennonite Quarterly Review, he has also written extensively in the field of Mennonite life and culture. A leader in the Church, he is presently associate secretary of the Committee on Peace and Social Concerns, a combination of two former committees. Prof. Hershberger was executive secretary of the Committee on Economic and Social Relations since 1939, and executive secretary of the Peace Problems Committee since 1959.

Prof. Hershberger will continue to study and do research in the areas that have been his specialty throughout his life. He is presently working on several manuscripts, two of which are "Pacifism to Politics in Provincial Pennsylvania," about the Quaker experiment in politics from about 1680 to 1756, and "The Mennonite Church in Relief Work."

Netherlands Chamber Choir Returns for '66-'67 Series

The Netherlands Chamber Choir, 18 men and women singing a cappella, that appeared four years ago at the College, will return for a February 13, 1967, appearance in the Lecture-Music Series.

Also in next year's season is the appearance of the 85-member Philharmonia Hungarica Symphony, with Ludwig Hoffmann, pianist (March 13); Richard Dyer-Bennet, balladeer, performing Beethoven's Scottish and Irish Songs (October 29); the Baroque Chamber Players, of the faculty of Indiana University's School of Music (December 12); the Swingle Singers (December 1); the National Players giving Shakespeare's "The Merchant of Venice" (January 12); and Fran William Hall, lecturer-photographer, presenting "Four Faces of Southeast Asia" (April 24).

Students Commended for Giving Blood

John E. Yoder, of Akron, Pa., receives the Blood Donor Honor Roll from Mrs. Norman Wilson, of the Goshen Chapter of the American Red Cross. The certificate commends 24 men on the fourth floor of Kratz Hall for the greatest percentage of student participation of all of the residence halls in the recent blood drive at Goshen College.

John E. Yoder was appointed by the Student Christian Association and the Goshen College Community Government to be chairman of the drive. Looking on are David P. Martin, of Denver, Pa. (left), president of the Student Christian Association, and Raymond M. Sala (right), director of church relations at Goshen College and the College's representative on the board of the local chapter of the Red Cross.

In all, students donated 214 pints of blood on the day of the drive, April 12. Sixty-six pints were designated as replacement blood for a man who had open heart surgery; the rest of the blood was stored at the local blood bank and will be used at local co-operating hospitals.

CLASS OF '66 GIVES $2900 TOWARD LIBRARY PLAZA

Following a tradition almost as old as Goshen College itself, the Class of '66 gave $2900 to Pres. Mininger for the purchase of component parts — plants, benches, and sculpture — for the new library plaza.

The presentation was made by Jonathan E. Hartzler, of Mankato, Minn., at the Class Day Program on May 23.

In similar tradition, the 1966 Seminary graduating class gave $136 for the purchase of magazine racks for the Seminary library.

Class gifts to the College have been a tradition since 1915, when the Class of '15 made the first gift presentation as a part of commencement activities. Succeeding senior classes have followed the practice.

Tornado Victims Subjects of One of Three Studies

Nine students under the supervision of Dr. Lester Glick, of the department of social work, have completed a survey of tornado-stricken Sunnyside-Kingston Heights, west of Goshen.

Released a year exactly to the day after the Palm Sunday tornadoes of 1965, the survey pointed up that the residents of the area had no difficulty in recalling the awfulness of the disaster. They pay more attention to tornado warnings now than before, go to the storm shelter oftener and more quickly than before.

But the survey also showed that although the residents are more anxious about adversity generally, they are not overwhelmed by it. Some have developed new goals. The tornado also tended to make them more empathetic. Residents of the small community confide more in their spouses, interact more with their neighbors, and, in general, are able to rely more on other human relationships.

Two-thirds of the respondents said there is a better community spirit in Sunnyside-Kingston Heights; residents work together more for community improvements than they did before. Half said the area had better housing, and one-fifth said the community was cleaner.

In a second survey recently completed under the supervision of Prof. Glick, 115 randomly selected students answered questions designed to discover possible areas of stress in the life of college students.

Surprisingly, the results showed few stressful and threatening situations for a majority of the students. For example, 96.5 per cent said they found professors friendly toward students; 77.6 per cent said the competition among students for good grades does not interfere with human relationships. Eighty-four per cent said students who want part-time work during college can usually find work; 89.4 per cent said they got along well with their roommates. Eighty-six per cent said they had found purpose in their existence, and 73.1 per cent felt they were growing in their Christian life, with 13 per cent undecided, in itself a good sign since it makes the respondent ponder deeply the direction of his spiritual pilgrimage.

A third study centers in the use of television in Christian homes. Dr. J. Daniel Hess, of the department of English, has been awarded a John Funk lectureship to study attitudes toward participation in television of the members of the Yellow Creek Mennonite Church. The study is to be completed by October.

Receives Funds for Disadvantaged Students

The Sealantic Fund, Inc., has given Goshen College $21,960 for the three-year period, 1966-68, to support efforts to enroll disadvantaged students in the nursing curriculum.

The project offers unusual possibilities to assist young persons who would otherwise not be able to enter the profession, and is part of the College's program to continue, improve, and expand all aspects of its program for disadvantaged students.

For one month this summer Miss Katherine Shepard, a 1964 graduate of Goshen, is meeting with Negro high school students associated with Mennonite Churches in the Midwest and the East. She will seek to identify promising students and encourage them in their interest in planning for college.

Five new freshman Sealantic Fund scholarships will be matched with Educational Opportunity Grants and other College sponsored assistance to nursing students with severely limited personal resources.

Scholarship funds will also be awarded for summer study to students whose readiness for college is not clear. Other funds will be awarded high school juniors to travel to the campus for College Preview, a week-long event in June to help students get acquainted with college life and which includes testing, guidance, workshops, convocations, and a variety of religious and social events.

Homecoming Date Changed

For Goshen College alumni, the traditional Thanksgiving-Homecoming observance has, in recent years, attracted fewer and fewer alumni. For one thing, Thanksgiving has tended to be more of a family day. Second, four days and three evenings of events—Thanksgiving Thursday through Sunday—has been too long a time for many alumni to stay in Goshen.

After a special review last fall after the 1965 Homecoming, the faculty acted to schedule 1966 Homecoming earlier in the fall and to allow students the chance to go home for Thanksgiving; and second, to pack the weekend with as many varied activities as possible to be attractive to as many alumni as possible.

Thus, in '66 there'll be no turkey, not even cold turkey, but the date is earlier and the events are scheduled closer together, for a faster-paced weekend, and one which the College hopes you'll find enjoyable.

OPEN LETTER TO ALUMNI

From Frank Ulrich '55, President of the Alumni Association On First Day in Office

Without question the higher education program at Goshen College means much to the Mennonite Church and the larger Christian brotherhood. We as alumni, who have received the benefits of an education at Goshen, are the first to accept this. In the years ahead, we alumni, individually and through our Alumni Association, shall not stop in supporting our Alma Mater and in telling others about the purpose and goals for which Goshen College exists.

FIRST and foremost the Alumni Association will stand behind and promote an unexcelled academic program at our College. At the same time, our College will be known for its Christian emphasis and environment.

Many colleges and universities across the nation strive to attain just one of these objectives. But for Goshen, either, standing alone and without the other, shortchanges the students, the faculty, and we, the alumni.

Alumni will applaud every gain that Goshen makes in achieving (1) academic excellence in its educational program, and (2) a genuinely Christian perspective and atmosphere on campus.

SECOND, our Association will promote loyalty. Not loyalty of mere words, but a loyalty of tenacious quality.

Alumni in years earlier devoted countless hours and energies for the good of their Alma Mater. Their loyalty has meant a real Goshen College—Christian higher education for each of us and for the increasing numbers of students in this decade.

The objectives for this year are (1) to vitalize three clubs that have not been active in recent years, and (2) to found clubs in three areas where there has been an increase in the number of alumni sufficient for organization.

THIRD, our Association will encourage generous giving among us, the alumni. Every alumnus must get into the act. He who has not included his Alma Mater in his giving will be urged to do so.

Some among us have given sacrificially. The increase of $18,000 in gifts in the 1966 Annual Fund, over the 1965 Annual Fund, would not have been realized otherwise. To them the credit belongs for helping our Association surpass its $100,000 goal last year.

FOURTH, only with the combined support of alumni, the church, and the community can our College continue to prepare the young men and women who seriously desire Christian higher education. Our Association will, therefore, encourage alumni to be active in their church and community, to be generous with their time, interest, and resources.

The help and encouragement of every alumnus who ever studied at Goshen College are required if the Alumni Association is to stride forward this year. Prayer and financial support must go hand in hand. Moral support must not be lacking. Letters with suggestions and concerns for the College or the Association are always welcome and will receive my personal attention.

Sincerely,
Frank Ulrich

A Special Note To the Class of '57

The response to the Alumni Poll from members of the Class of '57 was enthusiastic beyond all expectations. There was simply not enough space in this issue to do justice to all the news and letters from the alumni of '57. The next issue of the Alumni Newsletter—soon after the first of the year—will be devoted to the Class of '57. —Ed.

Since 1950 Albert and Lois (Litwiller) '44 Buckwalter have been missionaries to the Toba Indians of the Chaco, Argentina. They have returned home three times for furloughs, the first two times for one year, during which they studied linguistics. They have four children, ages 6 to 16. Albert writes, "Lois has specialized in making our home the nicest place in the world to be. Our four children are all doing well in school. As Christian missionaries to the Toba Indians who live in small colonies scattered throughout an area of about 100 miles square, we have had experiences of both joy and sorrow; joy, at seeing the joy that comes into people's lives upon finding something worthwhile to live for; sorrow, for the human wreckage that comes in the wake of the clash between modern Occidental and the primitive American Indian cultures. Our main task is to serve as religious counselors and teachers to these people in their churches which they themselves manage. The American Bible Society has just published the Version Popular of the New Testament, a translation in the simplest of Spanish. This promises to be a Godsend for these people of scarce education, as well as limited use of the Spanish language. As an additional aid we are translating portions of the New Testament into the Toba language. The Gospel of Mark is right now in the hands of the typesetters." .

GOSHEN COLLEGE BULLETIN NOVEMBER 1966

A Letter to Parents of a Prospective Student

The letter below is President Mininger's reply to a letter written by parents to him last summer. Their eldest child will enter college soon. — Ed.

Dear Friends:

I have your recent letter in which you state that you want your son to attend a college which is "a Christian community where faculty and students are deeply concerned about the Christian message, the Christian life, Christian service—where one might say that spiritual values are dominant and infectious." You then ask whether I can recommend Goshen College in these terms. You will, of course, recognize that as President of the college I cannot be entirely objective in giving an answer to your question. I will try to be helpful, however, and you may then want to get a further evaluation of Goshen College from other sources.

The educational environment of Goshen College today is determined to a large extent by the present faculty. I believe that the members of our faculty are "deeply concerned about the Christian message, the Christian life and Christian service, that the spiritual values are dominant and infectious" in their lives and in their teaching. Since our society is going through rapid and significant changes, the members of the faculty would not have uniform answers to questions as to what forms of behavior best express the Christian response to the Gospel today. They are, however, dedicated and concerned Christians as well as competent teachers.

Tradition vs. Change

Since the cultural expression of the Christian life in the Mennonite Church during the last few generations has been largely determined by tradition, the church has not yet learned how to determine the new forms through which to express its life in a rapidly changing society. This makes for more diversity both within the college and within the church than was true in the past.

The diversity of practice and temporary confusion within the Mennonite Church today creates unique problems for our youth. In some respects the problems of our youth today are not greatly different from what they were 30 years ago. In other respects they are quite different. The pace of change is greater and there is more pluralism in the church today. Furthermore, the values of the larger society are more secular today and less influenced by the traditional Christian ethic.

The Student and His Christian Faith

All of this means that not all students at Goshen College who are members of the Mennonite Church are "deeply concerned about the Christian message, the Christian life and Christian service." Some of them are reacting against the kind of Christianity they experienced at home. Many of them are re-evaluating the faith which they have received. This is a normal part of the experience of youth and is a normal part of higher education. As youth today go through this experience at Goshen College they are more open and vocal in their questioning than were the students of your generation. The demand for authenticity in matters of faith is one of the encouraging aspects of our college youth today. Since students who are in college today will be living in a world in which they will be exposed to many other options beside the Christian faith and will need to live with people who have other commitments, it becomes necessary that students are not only well grounded in their faith but that they are helped to think through their faith in the light of the options that they will confront later. We try to provide the resources to help them as they pass through this period of searching and questioning, but we cannot prevent it. Neither can we prevent the excursions in their thinking and the open expression and discussion of their questions.

The "Ideal" Goshen College

In other words, I am frank to say that Goshen College comes short of achieving the ideal described by the words, "a Christian community where faculty and students are deeply concerned about the Christian message, the Christian life, Christian service — where spiritual values are dominant and infectious." The only way that I know to achieve this ideal would be to be more selective in our admissions policies and admit students only after they have achieved a level of Christian commitment which is implied by the words quoted above.

We do have requirements to regulate student behavior and we try to help students when they violate these standards. We also ask students not to return to Goshen or suspend them when it is clear they do not intend to take seriously our standards of behavior. Up to the present, however, we have not had a minimum requirement of Christian commitment for attendance. Our expectation is that there will be a preponderant number of young persons coming from our churches who are deeply committed Christians and that the faculty and these students together can provide the kind of environment in which Christian learning can take place and at the same time that we can tolerate and assist those who are reacting, doubting, or struggling in the reconstruction of their faith and values.

The Kind of School Goshen Is

This is the kind of college Goshen College is. We are a very human institution and, therefore, have weakness. Both faculty and students make mistakes — too many. If you are asking me whether this is the kind of institution to which I would want to send my children, I would say, "It is." Whether this is the kind of institution to which you will want to send your son, I do not know. There are other institutions which are more selective in their admissions (admitting only committed Christians) and which have a curriculum designed primarily for preparing persons for direct Christian witness in the organized work of the church, rather than a liberal arts curriculum. Such institutions would probably more nearly achieve the norm which you have described. Certain colleges also attempt to regulate and control the behavior of students more than we do and also to shelter them more than Goshen College does. The student at such colleges gets a somewhat different education than he would at Goshen College. Whether it is better you will need to judge.

Your decision regarding a college for your son should also take into account the present status of his development. Frequently students who have been too closely sheltered before college are not ready for the new freedom that comes with getting away from home and attending Goshen College. They are not prepared for the responsibility of managing their lives and the results are disappointing both to their parents and to the college.

Sometimes young persons build up a romantic idea regarding the Mennonite Church or Goshen College. When they come here and find that we do not measure up to their expectations, they are disillusioned and lose their faith. Under these circumstances their parents and we are disappointed as well as the students.

Christians with Serious Intentions Welcome

Assuming that your son has had a proper balance of freedom and responsibility up to the time he comes to Goshen, that he does not have romantic ideas regarding the church, and that he is a Christian with serious intentions at the time he comes to Goshen, I can only say that we need such persons here and that most such persons can profit greatly from their attendance at Goshen College. We cannot guarantee that your son will grow in his faith if he comes to Goshen College. We will seek to provide an environment, which will stimulate his "concern for the Christian message, the Christian life and Christian service" and in which there will be opportunity for learning and development. We will be glad to welcome him if you choose to send him to Goshen College.

If you have other specific concerns or questions about the college I will be glad to try to answer them.

Yours in Christ,

Paul Mininger

Library Named for Donors

The $1,000,000 library, presently under construction (above), a gift by Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Good late last year, will be named in their honor — the Harold and Wilma Good Library.

When they visited the campus in early fall a year ago, they had had plans to make additional books available for the growing needs of their Alma Mater, the faculty, and the students. They had also made plans to include the College in the distribution of their estate.

A Library Now

But during their visit they became conscious of the value of a substantial gift to the College now, and as they returned home, they became convinced that now was the time for the College to build a library.

After making their gift of $1,000,000 to the College for the new library, they wrote to the faculty:

"We have always felt a keen sense of timing and have often referred to the quotation, 'For everything there is a season, and a time for every matter under heaven' (Eccl. 3:1, R.S.V.)."

Preferred Near Anonymity

At the time of making their gift, Mr. and Mrs. Good preferred near anonymity. But after carefully considering the expressed wish of the College that the library be named the Harold and Wilma Good Library, the donors graciously acceded to the request.

Formal action at the recent Board of Education meeting makes the choice of name official.

Seminaries Receive $60,000 for Exploring Theological Education

Lilly Endowment, Inc., awarded $60,000 in late October to Associated Mennonite Biblical Seminaries to explore how ministers within the free church tradition can best be prepared for the coming decades.

The project, to be known as a "model for theological education in the free church tradition," is timely because graduate preparation of ministers in the Mennonite brotherhood is a relatively new development.

Further, firm trends have not been established in the program of studies presently offered jointly by the two schools — Goshen College Biblical Seminary and Mennonite Biblical Seminary — in the co-operative relationship known as Associated Mennonite Biblical Seminaries.

Lilly Endowment, Inc., an Indianapolis foundation engaged in religious, educational, and community philanthropy, awarded the funds on the understanding that two years be devoted to the project.

"It is with a deep sense of thanksgiving to God and to Lilly Endowment, Inc," President Mininger of Goshen's seminary, and Pres. Waltner, of Mennonite Biblical Seminary, said, "that we make this announcement. The award will make possible a study which is of first priority."

Other Studies Inadequate

Although similar studies have been carried on by other groups, none is adequate for the present purposes of the Associated seminaries, whose heritage is rooted in the "free church" tradition.

By "free church" is meant those groups who believe strongly in separation of church and state and in voluntarism in matters of faith. Historically, the "free church theology has been represented in such denominations as the Baptists, Disciples, Brethren, Friends, Brethren in Christ, and Mennonite and related groups.

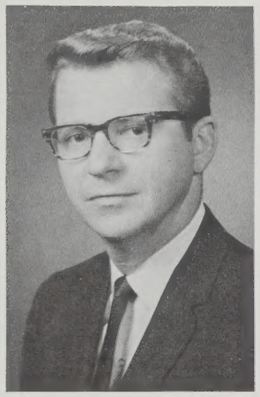
The study is designed not only to assist the Mennonite Church, but to help point the way as well for other groups who share this heritage.

Director Named

Named to direct the study is Dr. Ross T. Bender, dean of the Associated Seminaries, who will be released from routine administrative responsibility for the two-year period. A group of six faculty members will work closely with him.

Appointed to this group are Drs. Millard C. Lind, J. C. Wenger, and John H. Yoder, of Goshen College Biblical Seminary, and Drs. C. J. Dyck, Leland Harder, and William Klassen, of Mennonite Biblical Seminary.

Larry Yoder National Alumni Chairman for '67



Larry R. Yoder, business manager of Oaklawn Psychiatric Center, of Elkhart, Ind., has been named national chairman of the 1967 Alumni Annual Fund for Goshen College.

Mr. Yoder, a 1959 graduate of Goshen College, has experience in public relations and business administration. He assisted part-time in public relations at Kings View Hospital, Reedley, Calif., where he was on the staff, 1959-61, in the capacity of director of activities.

In August, 1963, he accepted his present duties at Oaklawn. Recently his responsibilities have been broadened to include activities in the Oaklawn Foundation.

Mr. Yoder received the master of business administration degree at Indiana University in 1963. He was married to the former Janice Hamsher, of Berlin, Ohio, last August.

Last year's Alumni Annual Fund netted the College $100,792, an increase of more than $18,000 over the amount given to the College by alumni in 1964. The gifts last year were divided between books for the new library and renovation of the post office, snack shop, bookstore, and student lounge in the Union to accommodate the increasing numbers of students.

New Faces at Goshen General

Miss Mary Chupp, left, clinical instructor for the division of nursing, is pictured here with three of 47 sophomore students who are getting their clinical experience at Goshen General Hospital. Pictured left to right are Miss Chupp, Louise Leech, of Shelby, Ohio, Miriam Wheeler, of Jackson, Ky., and Carolyn Frazier, of Redway, Calif.

Students are at the hospital each morning for clinical instruction and observation for 4½ hours. The co-operative effort between Goshen College and Goshen General Hospital began this fall just a few weeks after the hospital earned its accreditation. Junior and senior nursing students are still assigned to Elkhart General Hospital.

Dr. Paul Mininger, Goshen's president, and Prof. Orpah B. Mosemann, director of the division of nursing, have expressed their enthusiastic approval of the new relationship between the College and Goshen General.

By using both Elkhart and Goshen general hospitals it will be possible in succeeding years to offer more students the opportunity of studying for professional nursing, a vocation, which, according to national estimates, will require close to 200,000 more nurses than are now being educated to keep pace with the nation's needs.

The division of nursing opened its program in 1950 with eight students and two teachers. From this small beginning it has grown to more than 200 students, 11 teachers, and 288 alumni.

A Letter to President Mininger From Parents of Recent Graduates

Pardon us for never having written a sincere thanks to the faculty as a whole.

We realize that this would include the help of many working behind the scenes — from the furnace room, to the cafeteria, dormitory, classrooms, and offices. A major responsibility would have lain upon those who "majored" the students in the last two or three years at G.C. We have been praying for those who guide students through these crucial years. We are less anxious as they launch into graduate schools because of what G.C. has done for them.

Collegium Musicum Organized

Eighteen students have been named to Goshen College's Collegium Musicum, directed by Dr. Lon Sherer, associate professor of music.

The Collegium is a group of musicians who are interested in Renaissance instruments, who sing and can also double on a recorder, brass, or string instrument.

Presently in its first year, the Collegium will study music from a wide range of periods and styles. Most of the music has only recently been made available through historical editions; much of it has not been performed since the period in which it was written.

Construction of the first new building in Goshen College's 75th Anniversary Development Program was completed in September.

New Residence Hall Named for O.O. Miller

The new $390,000 residence hall (above), with accommodations for 132 upperclass women, has been named in honor of Orie O. Miller. The name was chosen at the recent meeting of the Mennonite Board of Education.

It is fitting that Orie O. Miller Hall stand next to Clayton Kratz Hall (in background center). Both men were members of Mennonite Central Committee's overseas relief unit — organized to give relief aid to victims of the Russian civil war in the fall of 1920. Only by an abrupt change of circumstances was Kratz arrested on suspicion of being a spy, and never seen again.

Mr. Miller later became executive secretary of MCC; today he is executive secretary emeritus. Beside the church's overseas relief program, his dedication in the past 5½ decades has also shown results in many other aspects of the church's program.

Service to Higher Education

His contributions to the higher education arm of the church have been impressive. Early in his life he served as principal of the school of business at Goshen College.

Since 1920 he has been a member of the Mennonite Board of Education, for which he served as financial agent for more than 30 years and on the executive committee for more than 25. At the recent meeting of the Board, he was elected honorary member after 45 years of continuous service on the Board.

Helped Resettle Refugees

In addition to his many years of service to higher education, he helped to administer the vast program of Mennonite relief which has resettled thousands of refugees. During the depression he helped to reorganize church financing.

He helped to establish and then administer the $500,000 a year Civilian Public Service program during World War II.

His business background, gained from operating a number of shoe manufacturing companies in Eastern Pennsylvania, has been an invaluable asset to him in organizing some 40 business and professional men into Mennonite Economic Development Associates, whose aim is to give economic assistance to Mennonites in frontier situations.

Mr. Miller was also one of the founders of Mennonite Mutual Aid in 1945; he served as its president for many years and later continued on the board.

Mission Board Secretary

For more than 20 years he served as secretary of the Eastern Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities, and saw its overseas mission personnel grow from nothing to more than 130.

He also helped the Mennonite Church structure its peace witness by serving 40 years on the Peace Problems Committee, which began in 1925.

Churchmanship Widely Felt

It is clear that Mr. Miller's churchmanship has been widely felt across the nation and around the world. His insights into the physical needs of ravaged countries and the spiritual needs of their seemingly hopeless and unloved peoples have moved the church to finance and make personnel available for significant material aid and church-building efforts.

To prepare young persons for significant Christian service — both in the church and in business and professional life — he saw the value of church-operated institutions of higher education and he has worked hard toward making Christian higher education available for them.

In naming the building Pres. Mininger said, "Goshen College in thinking of a name for the hall wanted one which would exemplify Christian dedication, service, and commitment, characterizing the same qualities that motivated Clayton Kratz. The College is satisfied that the life of Orie O. Miller well demonstrates these qualities."

Of the 10 soccer games this fall, the Maple Leafs had a 8 win—1 tie—1 loss record.
Of the 9 tennis matches, the record was at 8 win—1 loss.

THE SNACK SHOP, RENOVATED THIS FALL, took over space formerly known as the Union Lounge. The bookstore took over what earlier was bookstore, post office, and snack shop, while the post office was moved to the west corridor of the Union. The improvements are part of the program to accommodate the increasing numbers of students on campus in their off-study hours and recreational requirements.

Lilly Endowment, Inc., Awards $75,000 for 'Office of Experimentation in Christian Higher Education'

Lilly Endowment, Inc., in late October approved a proposal by Goshen College to establish an office of experimentation in Christian higher education.

Up to $75,000 will be available in the next three years for the work of the office. The initial grant, for the setting up of the office for the first year, is $25,000.

Lilly Endowment, Inc., is an Indianapolis foundation engaged in religious, educational, and community philanthropy.

Deeply Grateful

Dr. Paul Mininger, Goshen's president, said that the College is deeply grateful to Lilly Endowment, Inc., for making funds available to conduct this program.

The office of experimentation could not be established within the regular financial resources of the College without curtailing development plans or reducing needed operating funds.

To Propose Experimental Programs

The office of experimentation, for which a full-time director is soon to be named, will propose experimental programs to assist in the developing of Christian faith and the strengthening of Christian character in college students.

Additional funds will be requested from Lilly Endowment, Inc., to carry out the individual experimental programs as each is approved. The work is expected to extend over a number of years.

Pres. Mininger said, "The grant from Lilly Endowment, Inc., is recognition of their faith in the College's capacity to show the way.

"Goshen College will do pioneering work that will benefit not only its Christian higher education program, but also colleges and universities across the nation concerned with improving the effectiveness of Christian higher education."

Bold New Experiments

"To engage in some bold new experiments in Christian higher education," Pres. Mininger said, "is a great challenge that Lilly Endowment, Inc., has placed before Goshen College.

"As at Goshen College," he said, "the unique role of Christian colleges across the nation is found in at least two areas.

"The first part of the role is found in the Christian college's freedom to develop Christian faith, character, and obedience in its educational program. The second is in the ability of the Christian college to use every part of the learning environment to contribute to the achievement of these educational objectives.

"I am convinced it is possible for a college to make a significant impact on student values. Further, colleges related to the Christian church have a special opportunity and responsibility to bring the resources of the Christian faith and conscience to their students.

"In these days of secularism, Christian colleges must work intensively to achieve this goal."

Over $24,000 in Scholarship Aid

Goshen College awarded 122 students a total of $24,580 in scholarship aid this fall for the school year.

Seventy-six freshmen received a total of $14,940 in freshman scholarships. Fifteen freshmen and 23 upperclassmen received a total of $8,000 in Menno Simons Scholarships. Eight students who came to Goshen College from Hesston College received a total of $1,640 under the Hesston Transfer Scholar program.

Not counted in the total were a number of scholarships awarded late last year for study at Goshen College by continuing students.

In addition to the scholarship program, Goshen College also administers loan, grant, work-study, and Educational Opportunity Grant programs. About 360 students will receive a total of about $275,000 in these four programs this year.

Holy Land Seminar in Summer 1967

A Holy Land Seminar for pastors and lay leaders has been set for June 29-July 22, 1967, in connection with Mennonite World Conference.

It is sponsored by the Associated Mennonite Biblical Seminaries, of which Goshen College Biblical Seminary is a member.

The seminar will provide first hand knowledge of the history and geography of Bible lands and opportunities for the study of the Bible in its geographical context. And it will acquaint persons with current issues in the political, social, economic and religious life of modern Israel and with the efforts of the Christian church and of the Mennonite church in particular in evangelism.

Academic co-ordinator and resource leader of the seminar will be Dr. Anson Rainey, of the faculty of Tel Aviv University and American Institute of Holy Land Studies. He is a long-time friend of the Mennonite missionaries to Israel, Roy Kreider and Paul Swarr, who will also help in the seminar. Bible study and seminar leaders will be Dr. Howard H. Charles, of Goshen College's Seminary, and Dr. Jacob J. Enz, of Mennonite Biblical Seminary.

The seminar is limited to 30 persons. Graduation from college is not required to be accepted. The estimated cost of $850 is exclusive of the transatlantic flight.

Reservations are now being accepted. A down payment of $100 a person will hold space. More information is available from Ross T. Bender, Dean, Associated Mennonite Biblical Seminaries, 3003 Benham Avenue, Elkhart, Indiana 46517.

Religious Series Opened by Jacobs

Six series of messages on religious themes opened at Goshen College on October 11 with Donald R. Jacobs, bishop of Tanganyika Mennonite Church, speaking on "Theology and Missions."

Dr. Jacobs, speaking in the fall lecture series of the Associated Mennonite Biblical Seminaries, lectured on "Mission and Christocentric Theology," "Mission, Secularization and the New Society," "An Overview of Mennonite Mission," and "Indigenizing Theology."

The messages were the first on this year's school calendar to be sponsored by the Associated Mennonite Biblical Seminaries or the College's Religious Life Committee.

Dr. Jacobs returned to Goshen for a second series for college students during mission-service emphasis, November 7-11.

A second series of messages began on October 13 in the annual peace emphasis. Dr. Vincent Harding, formerly of Mennonite Central Committee, now on the faculty of Spelman College, was the speaker.

The other series are Christian Life and Renewal Week, February 6-10, with Paul Rees, vice-president of World Vision, Inc., and a frequent contributor to Christianity Today magazine; the spring Seminaries lectures, April 10-11, with Dr. George E. Mendenhall, of the American School of Oriental Research; and the Bible Lectures, April 25-28, with Dr. Markus Barth, professor of New Testament at Pittsburgh Theological Seminary.

A series of six Convocation-Lecturers, one sponsored by each division of the College, has also begun. The first of these speakers was Dr. Evelyn Millis Duvall, author of widely used text and reference books on family life. She spoke on October 21 on the subject of her most recent book, "Why Wait Till Marriage?" a defense of premarital chastity.

The second speaker was Dr. Howard Schomer, former president of Chicago Theological Seminary, who spoke October 29 on "Our Culture and Our Faith: How Can the Strained Relationship Be Bettered?"
